Allies Kill 138 Reds In Fight Near DMZ

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command today reported savage fighting between the eastern end of the demilitarized zone and announced the appointment of a U.S. Army general to command the Marines and other defenders of the critical northern frontier.

U.S. spokesmen also reported the heaviest air strikes against North Vietnam in more than a month.

A task force of U.S. Marines and South Vietnamese infantrymen battled 500 Communist troops for seven hours Thursday near Dong Ha, the forward Marine base supplying other allied outposts along the DMZ.

Aided by tactical fighter-bombers and artillery, the allied troops reported killing 138 Communist soldiers. U.S. headquarters said the South Vietnamese troops accounted for 123 of the enemy dead and the Marines for the other 15. Marine casualties were 15 killed and 124 wounded, with 76 of the wounded requiring hospitalization. South Vietnamese casualties were reported light.

U.S. headquarters said several battalions of South Vietnamese infantrymen ran into the enemy force about noon while sweeping the Cua Viet River delta, a Communist stronghold on the coastal marshlands. Troops of the 3rd and 4th Marine regiments were on the east flank of the South Vietnamese task force when heavy fighting developed.

The Marines, a special landing team of about 1,000 men that was put ashore more than a month ago, have been sweeping north of the Cua Viet River, while the South Vietnamese have been operating south of the river. A week ago the combined force killed 234 North Vietnamese in the same area.

At Khe Sanh, South Vietnamese Rangers surprised more than 100 North Vietnamese troops today as they slipped up on the Marine base and killed 27 of the enemy as they emerged from a tunnel just outside the base's barbed wire perimeter.

The lieutenant leading the South Vietnamese was wounded. When other rangers started out to rescue him, he waved them back and shot himself in the head to avoid capture, AP correspondent Robert Ohman reported from the besieged Marine fortress.

Ohman reported that the Communists shelled the base all day, pumping in a round of artillery or a rocket about every 10 minutes. He said one round just missed a big CH4Y helicopter taking off with a load of wounded Marines.

Farther south, government troops reported killing 21 Communist soldiers four miles east of Hue and uncovering the bodies of 25 enemy soldiers in the same area.

Meanwhile, Gen. William C. Westmoreland announced the organization of a new northern headquarters in which Marine Lt. Gen. Robert E. Cushman retains overall command of the five threatened northern provinces.

Gen. Westmoreland put Army Lt. Gen. William B. Ross, a native of Des Moines, Iowa, in charge of operations from Hue north.

Grisly Crash Claims 20; Wrong-Way Car Hits Bus

BAKER, Calif. (AP) — A Greyhound bus and an auto collided head on Thursday on Interstate 15 in the Mojave Desert killing 20 persons. Police said the car was in the wrong lane.

"The bus was passing another vehicle when the car came in sight," said Jim Almer, whose car was just ahead of the bus. "The bus driver couldn't get back into the right lane. Then it happened. All I saw was dirt flying in the air, and explosion, flames and smoke."

The bus, which carried 32 passengers, fell onto its side on the median of the divided highway and caught fire. Twelve persons were injured, including bus driver Kenneth Burkhardt, whose leg was broken.

The survivors were taken to several hospitals and some were listed in serious condition. Many of the dead were severely burned, delaying identification.

California highway patrol officers said they believed the auto driver was thrown under the bus and killed. Apparently there was only one person in the car, officers said.

A passenger said: "The flames just took the bus. There were just too many flames for us to do anything."

Several aboard the bus bound for Las Vegas, Nev., from Los Angeles were thrown underneath, highway patrol Sgt. Elton Lee said. Others were trapped inside.

Edward Wilkerson, 28, of North Hollywood, who escaped from the burning bus, said from his hospital bed: "The flames just kept getting bigger and bigger and just kept burning and burning. The people that were left inside just didn't have a chance."

The crash took place on Baker Grade, 19-mile upward stretch at a point three miles east of the Mojave Desert Community of Baker.

Almer, a telephone repairman, said he spotted the west-bound car on the east-bound side of the median and tried to warn the passing driver. He said he watched helplessly in his rear view mirror as the vehicles collided.

Within minutes "The whole town of Baker was there throwing sand and water on the wreckage, but it didn't seem to do any good," a witness said.

Doctor Is Called In Murder Trial

SAN JUAN, P.R. (AP) — Judge Hiram Cancio ordered federal investigators Thursday to bring a military doctor here to testify in the murder trial of Carolyn Wilkins of Newark, Ohio.

The doctor, Capt. Melvin Grossman, is reported to have talked with Mrs. Wilkins shortly after she was arrested in the stabbing death of her husband, Sgt. Wesley Wilkins Jr., at their home on the Ft. Buchanan Reservation Nov. 11, 1966.

Fire Hazard Still Great In Forests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State forestry officials warned Friday that conditions for the weekend will be hazardous in respect to possible grass and forest fires in southeastern Ohio.

There were several grass fires in the area Thursday, one near Logan burning over five acres of grassland, but none which seriously threatened any woodland.

However, Vern Honchell, district forester of the Ohio Bureau of Forestry said it could get "real rough" this weekend with predicted low humidity and with temperatures above normal accompanied by winds.

He said his people are watching the situation closely and that all efforts will be made to move in quickly to control any grass fires.

No-Confidence Discussion Set by Viets

After Budget Talks, Representatives May Take Action

SAIGON (AP) — A motion to discuss whether to vote on a motion of no confidence against government will be placed on the agenda of South Vietnam's House of Representatives.

A petition Thursday received the required signatures of more than one-third of the House membership—setting the stage for what could be weeks of political testing for President Nguyen Van Thieu.

It was learned today the petition calls to task Premier Nguyen Van Loc, the director of the national police and the ministers of defense and interior. The four are charged with not knowing about plans for the Communist Tet offensive and with not dealing effectively enough with it after it began.

The national police director, Brig. Gen. Nguyen Ngoc Loan, Defense Minister Nguyen Van Vy and Interior Minister Linh Quang Vin all deal with intelligence services that should have detected the coming Communist offensive, backers of the petition contend.

More than 50 signatures were reported on the petition, more than the 46 needed. The House has 135 members.

The discussion of a no-confidence motion will not come before the House at least until the end of next week. The budget is being discussed under emergency rules which do not allow the House to discuss anything else for eight days.

Court Martial Board Finds Cadet Insane

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — A cadet of the U.S. Air Force Academy has been found innocent by a court-martial of charges of robbery, larceny and forgery, but charges of aggravated robbery still are pending against him in District Court at Colorado Springs.

The court-martial of 21-year-old Paul S. Speas, the first for a cadet at the academy, ended Thursday when the presiding officer, Maj. William H. Carnahan, upheld a motion by the defense for a directed verdict of not guilty.

Three psychiatrists, two called by the defense and one, an army doctor, by the prosecution, said the blond, rugged-looking defendant is legally insane with "schizophrenic reactions."

Fishermen Deny They Were Saved

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — Two angry ice fishermen denied Thursday that they had been rescued from an ice floe by the Coast Guard.

The men—Philip S. Parsons, 24 and Harley W. White, 56, both of Bowling Green — were reported by the Coast Guard Wednesday as having been rescued from an ice floe about a half mile out in Lake Erie.

"The Coast Guard came out and we talked to them," Parsons said. "We asked then if the ice was cracking. They said 'no.' We said we'd just go on fishing, and they left."

Arkansas Prison Chief Is Fired

CUMMINS PRISON FARM, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas' prison Supt. Thomas O. Murton was fired Thursday night by the State Board of Corrections, apparently on orders from Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller.

Murton, a penologist, was asked last year by Rockefeller to leave his teaching duties at the University of Southern Illinois at Carbondale to institute reform in a much-maligned prison system.

Murton, 39, was generally credited for making sweeping changes in the prison system, but recently came under criticism by Rockefeller for bringing what the governor said was bad publicity on the state and turning Cummins Prison Farm into a "sideshow."

Find 16 Miners Dead; 5 Missing After Mine Fire

CALUMET, La. (AP) — Sixteen of 21 salt miners trapped for more than two days 1,200 feet below earth when fire ravaged a salt mine were found dead today. There was no word on whether the other five were alive.

"I cannot repeat this but once," said Clayton Tonnemaker, a Cargill, Inc., executive. "It is tragic news."

The word from a four-man rescue squad that had gone down into the blackened hole of the Cargill mine brought screams and moans from the crowd that had gathered during the course of a frantic two-day rescue effort.

He said the bodies were found on the floor of the mine which fans out in catacombs through awesome white pure salt. Another rescue team was sent back into the mine to search for the other men.

The mine is located in a marshy area on the edge of the Gulf of Mexico, accessible only by boat or plane. A large area behind the building covering the shaft was roped off to land helicopters.

Officials did not say when any attempt's would be made to raise the bodies.

A rescue crew had gone down the fire-torn mine shaft earlier in the morning, but found no clues as to the fate of the miners. This crew went out a half mile into the tunnels.

Tonnemaker said he considered this an excellent sign, since the men were not found in the immediate area of the fire which struck the base of the shaft late Tuesday night.

But, this encouragement lasted only a matter of hours. The tragic news came up about 11 a.m.

The many relatives who had maintained an around-the-clock vigil at Cargill headquarters in Calumet, 14 miles by boat from the scene, got the word from a company official whose voice was clouded with emotion.

"Tragic news... they found 16 bodies in the mine."

Again, screams and cries. There were about 70 people gathered in a tin shed at the company's dock. At the time, the 16 bodies were not identified. No one knew the fate of the five still missing, or who they were.

Seek 8 Bodies In Icy Potomac

QUANTICO, Va. (AP) — The

near-freezing waters of the Potomac River apparently permitted no survivors from a group of nine enlisted men—expert swimmers all—who attempted a crossing in a large canoe.

Hand-picked trainees at a Marine school for physical fitness instructors at this Marine base, they included five Vietnam veterans.

The body of one victim was recovered Thursday about eight miles below the base.

He was identified as Marine Staff Sgt. Kenneth N. Andrews. Eighteen hours before, he and his eight classmates had set out to cross and recross the river in a canoe large enough to hold all comfortably. Life preserver cushions were used as kneeling pads by the paddlers.

A massive land, water and air search continued today for the seven Marines and one Navy man still missing but hopes for finding them alive had dimmed.

The men—one instructor and eight students—were beginning the ninth week of a 12-week course at the Physical Fitness Academy, a school training instructors in close combat, physical fitness and water survival.

Their class was the second to canoe in short trips close to shore before attempting the river crossing.

Storms Hit South Plains; Midwest Mild

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thunderstorms rumbled across the Southern Plains today spilling rain over parts of Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas and lashing western Oklahoma with downpours, strong winds and hail.

Snow falling out of the same storm system blanketed the mountains of Colorado and Wyoming. One to two inches fell on some sections during a six-hour period Thursday night.

Temperatures remained almost springlike through the night from the Central Plains eastward. The same mild spell which has pushed the mercury into the 50s and 60s in the mid continent was expected to reach into the Northeast by nightfall.

A separate weather disturbance over the Far West, meanwhile, soaked much of California and dumped as much as 3 inches on some southern counties. More than an inch and a half drenched Los Angeles and Santa Barbara during the night.

Minor flooding occurred in various sections of Los Angeles. Although no major injuries were reported, many streets and freeways resembled auto grave yards with cars stalled here and there by skids and minor accidents.

Skies remained clear across the eastern half of the country and subzero cold hung onto northern New England. Houlton, Maine, registered 16 below.

Demand More Say by Solons About Buildup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and J. W. Fulbright have fueled a new eruption of Senate debate on Vietnam with demands that Congress be given a say before any major buildup of U.S. forces in the war zone.

Fulbright triggered Thursday's debate by asserting President Johnson is considering a big increase in U.S. military forces in Vietnam.

Kennedy, called current U.S. policies in Vietnam "immoral and intolerable." The New York Democrat said Congress should be consulted on military plans. And he added:

"Are we like God? Are we empowered to decide which cities, villages and hamlets will be destroyed? Do we have the authority to kill thousands and thousands because we say we have a commitment?"

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said Johnson has "tried hard and vigorously and consistently to find a way to the negotiating table." But Mansfield said there should be a full consultation with Congress before any "sizeable increase" in the present 325,000-man troop ceiling.

Earlier, Prof. John T. McAlister Jr. of Princeton University, a specialist in Vietnam politics and culture, told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee it would take 3 million to 15 million U.S. troops to gain a mili-

RFK Won't Enter Race Against LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Close associates say Sen. Robert F. Kennedy is standing pat on his decision not to enter the race for the Democratic presidential nomination this year.

The New York Democrat's position was represented as unchanged from the stance he assumed in recent public statements—that he would support President Johnson for re-election if the chief executive were renominated.

Edward Kennedy said he intends to remain on the delegation, even though it would be pledged by state law to vote for McCarthy on the first ballot at the Chicago convention in August.

Elsewhere on the political scene:

—Supporters of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the Republican presidential nomination have collected more than 30,000 signatures on petitions to place his name on the Oregon primary ballot. Only 1,000 signatures are required.

Rockefeller said Thursday he wouldn't rule out entering the May 28 Oregon primary. Last week he indicated he would file a disclaimer to keep his name off the ballot there.

LBJ Proposes Massive Conservation Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned Congress today to help renew the nation through a $1.2 billion program to conserve America's natural resources, "not only for man's enjoyment, but for man's survival."

The President put priority on his conservation program, which focuses on the goal of pure water and air, ending despoiling of the land, and preserving and creating beauty, and added measure of serenity and more outdoor recreation facilities.

The program proposes a probe of "peaceful promises of the ocean's depth" in cooperation rather than competition with other nations.

It seeks new authority to act against shipowners who discharge oil along the shores, in part by assessing them with the cost of cleaning up the mess.

The latest oil pollution incident, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, spread 1.5 million gallons of oil over bay and beaches when a tanker broke in two earlier this week.

Johnson asked for governmental authority to control strip mining which leaves the land scarred and barren.

He asked for more national parks and wilderness areas. A key proposal was more government aid to communities building waste-treatment plants to fight water pollution, with the aim of generating $1.4 billion worth of plant construction.

The President also urged final congressional action on legislation to save these natural wonders:

1. The Potomac River, which weaves a long Washington, Maryland and Virginia for some

200 miles, by making it a national river, because failure to preserve it "will make us the shame of generations to come."

2. California—Desolation wilderness in El Dorado National Forest, Ventana Wilderness in Los Padres National Forest, wilderness-area designation for the San Rafael and San Gabriel wilderness expanses.

3. Colorado—The Flat Tops.

4. Arizona—Mt. Baldy, Pine Mountain, Sycamore Canyon.

5. The Spanish Peaks.

Johnson said other possible preservation areas being surveyed are in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Georgia and Florida.

The President also asked Congress to strengthen government controls dealing with aircraft noise. Planes would be certified on the basis of noise levels.

Johnson proposed a new law to supplement earlier legislation which would make it unlawful to discharge oil from a shore facility, or from a ship operating within 12 miles of the shore.

Officials said this was not an attempt to extend the three-mile territorial limit this nation recognizes, but was intended to expand the previous standard of liability which was limited to gross or wilful negligence and to the three mile line.

The accompanying provision to require the polluter to pay all cleanup costs contrasts with present liability limited to the salvage value of the ship involved.

Johnson said no conservation problem is more urgent than that of polluted air which takes an annual economic toll of billions, stains cities and towns, damages forests and farms, and threatens health.

Edward Wilkerson, 28, of North Hollywood, who escaped from the burning bus, said from his hospital bed: "The flames just kept getting bigger and bigger and just kept burning and burning. The people that were left inside just didn't have a chance."

The crash took place on Baker Grade, 19-mile upward stretch at a point three miles east of the Mojave Desert Community of Baker.

Almer, a telephone repairman, said he spotted the west-bound car on the east-bound side of the median and tried to warn the passing driver. He said he watched helplessly in his rear view mirror as the vehicles collided.

Within minutes "The whole town of Baker was there throwing sand and water on the wreckage, but it didn't seem to do any good," a witness said.

Fire Hazard Still Great In Forests

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State forestry officials warned Friday that conditions for the weekend will be hazardous in respect to possible grass and forest fires in southeastern Ohio.

There were several grass fires in the area Thursday, one near Logan burning over five acres of grassland, but none which seriously threatened any woodland.

However, Vern Honchell, district forester of the Ohio Bureau of Forestry said it could get "real rough" this weekend with predicted low humidity and with temperatures above normal accompanied by winds.

He said his people are watching the situation closely and that all efforts will be made to move in quickly to control any grass fires.

LBJ Proposes Massive Conservation Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson summoned Congress today to help renew the nation through a $1.2 billion program to conserve America's natural resources, "not only for man's enjoyment, but for man's survival."

The President put priority on his conservation program, which focuses on the goal of pure water and air, ending despoiling of the land, and preserving and creating beauty, and added measure of serenity and more outdoor recreation facilities.

The program proposes a probe of "peaceful promises of the ocean's depth" in cooperation rather than competition with other nations.

It seeks new authority to act against shipowners who discharge oil along the shores, in part by assessing them with the cost of cleaning up the mess. The latest oil pollution incident, at San Juan, Puerto Rico, spread 1.5 million gallons of oil over bay and beaches when a tanker broke in two earlier this week.

Johnson asked for governmental authority to control strip mining which leaves the land scarred and barren.

He asked for more national parks and wilderness areas.

A key proposal was more government aid to communities building waste-treatment plants to fight water pollution, with the aim of generating $1.4 billion worth of plant construction.

The President also urged final congressional action on legislation to save these natural wonders:

1. The Potomac River, which weaves along Washington, Maryland and Virginia for some

200 miles, by making it a national river, because failure to preserve it "will make us the shame of generations to come."

2. California—Desolation wilderness in El Dorado National Forest, Ventana Wilderness in Los Padres National Forest, wilderness-area designation for the San Rafael and San Gabriel wilderness expanses.

3. Colorado—The Flat Tops.

4. Arizona—Mt. Baldy, Pine Mountain, Sycamore Canyon.

5. The Spanish Peaks.

Johnson said other possible preservation areas being surveyed are in Arkansas, Oklahoma, Georgia and Florida.

The President also asked Congress to strengthen government controls dealing with aircraft noise. Planes would be certified on the basis of noise levels.

Johnson proposed a new law to supplement earlier legislation which would make it unlawful to discharge oil from a shore facility, or from a ship operating within 12 miles of the shore.

Officials said this was not an attempt to extend the three-mile territorial limit this nation recognizes, but was intended to expand the previous standard of liability which was limited to gross or wilful negligence and to the three mile limit.

The accompanying provision to require the polluter to pay all cleanup costs contrasts with present liability limited to the salvage value of the ship involved.

Johnson said no conservation problem is more urgent than that of polluted air which takes an annual economic toll of billions, stains cities and towns, damages forests and farms, and threatens health.

To fight this menace, he asked Congress to provide $128 million for the 1969 fiscal year compared with $87 million for fiscal 1968. This would be spent under the clean-air act, which empowers the federal government to impose or enforce standards if states do not act.

To attack problems created by strip mining, Johnson proposed a new law under which the federal government would help states financially to develop their own plans to assure that all lands disturbed in the future will be reclaimed.

The states would be given two years to submit such plans to the secretary of the interior for review and approval. He would be empowered to impose federal standards if the states fail to set up their own plans or adopt inadequate ones.

Police Strike In Illinois City

CARBONDALE, Ill. (AP) — Mayor David Keene says he will seek an injunction to get striking city employees back to work.

The council voted Thursday afternoon to reinstate the police chief pending an investigation of all city employees return to work.

The striking workers replied at a city council meeting Thursday night by demanding the dismissal of the city manager and the public safety director as their price for returning to work.

Viet Battle Deaths May Top Korea's

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. battle deaths in Vietnam have escalated to such a rate they could surpass the Korean War toll by presidential election day.

The latest roundup on Vietnam combat deaths raised the total to 19,251 through March 2. This is still 14,378 short of the Korean War mark of 33,629 killed on the battlefield.

But the toll has climbed recently to a level of around 500 a week.

If this should keep up over the 35 weeks until election day Nov. 5, the death count could top 36,000.

The Korean War lasted three years, with fighting and negotiating going on at the same time during the last two years.

The United States has been involved in the Vietnam war for more than six years, but the air war against the North and the extensive U.S. commitment on the ground are three years old.

Battle deaths have been high since the Communists opened their lunar new year offensive Jan. 30.

The last three weeks have seen a record total of 543 combat deaths in the week ended Feb. 17, with 470 in the following week and 542 in the week ended March 2.

Whether this rate will continue—or possibly even rise—will hinge on any renewed Communist ground attacks in the cities, any North Vietnamese assault on Khe Sanh, the extent to which U.S. forces regain the offensive and the degree to which American troops must fill in gaps left by the South Vietnamese forces.

U.S. battle deaths have doubled and redoubled, reflecting the widening U.S. commitment over the years, the heavier infusion of American troops and the assumption by U.S. forces of a major combat role in the war.

The weekly average of battle deaths for the first nine weeks of 1968 comes to 358 men. That is about double the 1967 average of 180 a week. And the 1967 average was about double the 98-a-week average in 1966.

The following yearly totals of battle deaths mirror the deepening U.S. commitment:

1961 and 1962—42; 1963—78; 1964—147; 1965—1,389; 1966—5,008; 1967—9,378; first nine weeks of 1968—3,229.

Nineteen high school pupils from Westfall had their art entries accepted for competition in the First Annual Mid-South Ohio High School Art Competition at Ohio University — Chillicothe branch.

Open to all high school students within a 50-mile radius of the Chillicothe campus, a total of $150 in prizes was awarded for works in three categories—painting, drawing and mixed media.

The number of entries accepted for showing was limited to 50. Westfall students accounted for 19 of these entries.

Miss Ruth Montelius, art instructor, was complimented on the caliber of work from the Westfall school.

Prize winners were Margie Rigby, third prize in drawing and Larry Keller, third place in mixed medium.

Other students of the school whose entries were accepted in competition were: Diane Cook, Becky Gantz, William East, Brad Warner, Kenny Yates, Jill Barthen, Harry Hastings; Karen Skellett, David Chrostopher, Cathy Beekman, Patricia Napper, Tony Phillip, Frank Akers, Barbara Brown and Carma Liston.

Judge for the selection of accepted work was Mr. Bruce W. Soderwick, art instructor at the Chillicothe campus. Awards judge was Robert D. Borchard, associate professor or art education at Ohio University, Athens.

Thomas Miner Resigns as City Fireman

Thomas Miner resigned today as a member of the Circleville Fire Department to accept a position with private industry.

In submitting his resignation, Miner noted that the job he was going to pay more money and provides him with better benefits and a greater opportunity.

"I have benefited from my experience as a fireman and I have enjoyed my association with the members of the department," Miner said.

In reviewing his reasons for leaving the city fire department, Miner said the city had no paid holidays or insurance program.

HE also pointed out that council did not recognize the firemen's union as a bargaining agency and stated the men of the department had no assurance they would receive pay increases to match the advance of the cost of living.

According to Miner, his new job will pay him 60 cents more on the hour.

The resignation leaves the department two men short of authorized strength. Chief Bernard Wolfe said a request has been made by Safety Director Robert Adkins that a civil service test be scheduled to fill the vacancies.

However, none is yet stated, Wolfe said. He noted that two young men had voiced an interest in joining the department.

Wolfe expressed regret at Miner's leaving the department.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads that committee, again attacked the validity of the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, saying it was "based on false representations."

The overwhelming adoption of the resolution by Congress in 1964 preceded the rapid escalation of American troop strength in Vietnam.

Fulbright recently held hearings on the controversial naval incidents of Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, involving two U.S. destroyers and North Vietnamese torpedo boats. He concluded the Johnson administration gave misleading information to Congress regarding alleged attacks by the Communist vessels.

Kennedy renewed his charge there is "deep seated corruption" in the South Vietnamese government. He said Johnson had commented on such allegations recently in a Beaumont, Tex., speech that "there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex."

"If there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex., it's not bringing about the deaths of American boys," Kennedy said.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said the escalation decision "should not be made by one man." Others who said Congress should be consulted included Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

Viet Battle Deaths May Top Korea's

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. battle deaths in Vietnam have escalated to such a rate they could surpass the Korean War toll by presidential election day. The latest roundup on Vietnam combat deaths raised the total to 19,251 through March 2. This is still 14,378 short of the Korean War mark of 33,629 killed on the battlefield.

But the toll has climbed recently to a level of around 500 a week.

If this should keep up over the 35 weeks until election day Nov. 5, the death count could top 36,000.

The Korean War lasted three years, with fighting and negotiating going on at the same time during the last two years.

The United States has been involved in the Vietnam war for more than six years, but the air war against the North and the extensive U.S. commitment on the ground are three years old.

Battle deaths have been high since the Communists opened their lunar new year offensive Jan. 30.

The last three weeks have seen a record total of 543 combat deaths in the week ended Feb. 17, with 470 in the following week and 542 in the week ended March 2.

Whether this rate will continue—or possibly even rise—will hinge on any renewed Communist ground attacks in the cities, any North Vietnamese assault on Khe Sanh, the extent to which U.S. forces regain the offensive and the degree to which American troops must fill in gaps left by the South Vietnamese forces.

U.S. battle deaths have doubled and redoubled, reflecting the widening U.S. commitment over the years, the heavier infusion of American troops and the assumption by U.S. forces of a major combat role in the war.

The weekly average of battle deaths for the first nine weeks of 1968 comes to 338 men. That is about double the 1967 average of 180 a week. And the 1967 average was about double the 96-a-week average in 1966.

The following yearly totals of battle deaths mirror the deepening U.S. commitment:

1961 and 1962—42; 1963—78; 1964—147; 1965—1,369; 1966—5,008; 1967—9,378; first nine weeks of 1968—3,229.

HE also pointed out that council did not recognize the firemen's union as a bargaining agency and stated the men of the department had no assurance they would receive pay increases to match the advance of the cost of living.

According to Miner, his new job will pay him 60 cents more on the hour.

The resignation leaves the department two men short of authorized strength. Chief Bernard Wolfe said a request has been made by Safety Director Robert Adkins that a civil service test be scheduled to fill the vacancies.

However, none is yet stated, Wolfe said. He noted that two young men had voiced an interest in joining the department.

Wolfe expressed regret at Miner's leaving the department.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat who heads that committee, again attacked the validity of the so-called Gulf of Tonkin resolution, saying it was "based on false representations."

The overwhelming adoption of the resolution by Congress in 1964 preceded the rapid escalation of American troop strength in Vietnam.

Fulbright recently held hearings on the controversial naval incidents of Aug. 2 and 4, 1964, involving two U.S. destroyers and North Vietnamese torpedo boats. He concluded the Johnson administration gave misleading information to Congress regarding alleged attacks by the Communist vessels.

Kennedy renewed his charge there is "deep seated corruption" in the South Vietnamese government. He said Johnson had commented on such allegations recently in a Beaumont, Tex., speech that "there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex."

"If there's stealing in Beaumont, Tex., it's not bringing about the deaths of American boys," Kennedy said.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., said the escalation decision "should not be made by one man." Others who said Congress should be consulted included Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., and Jack Miller, R-Iowa.

Thomas Miner resigned today as a member of the Circleville Fire Department to accept a position with private industry.

In submitting his resignation, Miner noted that the job he was going to pay more money and provides him with better benefits and a greater opportunity.

"I have benefited from my experience as a fireman and I have enjoyed my association with the members of the department," Miner said.

In reviewing his reasons for leaving the city fire department, Miner said the city had no paid holidays or insurance program.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

It's All Part of the Game

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old, not married, and I work to support myself. I'm not bad looking and live fairly normal, happy life, but I'm beginning to wonder if maybe I'm foolish to work the way I do. What I'm trying to say is, I have a girl friend who works part-time—like maybe two days a week. She has had four husbands and she's single again. She has boy friends for everything. One pays her rent, another lets her drive his car, another painted and papered her whole house and she bragged all she gave him was lunches and a few daughterly kisses.

She sees the rent-payer on week-ends and she also has a truck driver staying with her off and on when he's in town. I don't know how she gets away with it. Shouldn't someone tell these chumps the score?

HER FRIEND
DEAR FRIEND: Don't worry about the chumps. Some men don't care what the score is as long as they're in the game.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a boy I'll call Bill for three years. I am 21 and Bill is 23. He has talked about getting married after I graduate from college, but I am not sure he is the one for me, and I have told him so. (I date other boys, too.)

My problem is every gift Bill gives me points toward marriage. For Christmas he gave me service for six in a very nice set of dishes. For Valentine day, he gave me service for 12 in some expensive stainless steel silverware. And for my birthday he gave me an electric blanket.

I don't have a hope chest.

Business Briefs

A registration statement covering a proposed public offering of a new issue of $30 million of sinking fund debentures due 1993 was filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission recently by Container Corporation of America, which has a paperboard mill in Circleville.

Kidder, Peabody & Co., Inc., has been designated as manager of the underwriting group which will offer the debentures to the public.

Net proceeds from the proposed sale of the debentures will be added to the general funds of Container Corporation, and together with internally generated funds will be available for modernization and expansion of existing facilities and the construction of new facilities. The company estimates it will spend approximately $65 million for these purposes from 1968 through 1970.

The debentures will have the benefit of a mandatory sinking fund, commencing in 1974 and calculated to retire 76 per cent of the issue prior to maturity. The debentures may not be refunded before March 15, 1978, at a stipulated annual net interest cost to the company.

of miles from rocket test centers here and at Cape Kennedy, Fla.

Missile men call these displays of spatial fireworks "twilight phenomena."

The king-size pyrotechnics come at dawn or dusk, when the light rays of the sun are bent earthward by particles in the exhaust of a just-launched missile or space booster.

Rockets fired from Vandenberg on the central California coast have created exhaust trails seen as far north as Oregon and as far east as Utah. Some Cape Kennedy rockets have been spotted from points along the entire lower East Coast.

The weird geometry of the zigzag trails is due to high-speed crosswinds as the 17,500 mile an hour rockets streak through the thin air at the edge of space. Up there—40 miles or higher—air molecules are so scattered they can be blown at speeds of 300 m.p.h. without bumping into each other and slowing down.

These thin, shifting winds twist and swirl the exhaust smoke into formations incredible to those unfamiliar with the whims of upper atmosphere turbulence.

The pastel colors of the smoke trails and the occasional prismatic flares of rainbow hues are credited to particles of metals and frozen vapor in the gases ejected as the rocket's fuel burns.

In the near-vacuum at 200,000 feet these hot gases expand swiftly over great distances, at rates impossible in the lower atmosphere here. They also fluoresce—the process which yields the many colors of neon lights—on a giant scale, producing oohs and aahs from onlookers on the ground.

The brighter displays apparently are generated by Minuteman missiles, which have a significant amount of metallic particles in their solid fuel.

The direction of the lunch—missiles from here usually are fired west toward a target area near Kwajalein Island, and satellites are aimed south into polar orbit—determines the length of the exhaust trail visible in the sky.

The angle of the viewer also plays a role. Observers looking "up the tailpipe" of a rocket fired west are likely to see a brighter but smaller cloud than those who watch the same launch from points north or south of the base.

An Air Force spokesman says the maneuverability of recently developed missiles is not responsible for the wild zigzagging apparent in some exhaust trails.

"Missiles do make adjustments in their course," he says, "but these are not sharp enough to cause the crazy patterns sometimes seen in the sky. Our scientists tell us the truly spectacular patterns are caused by winds."

The Air Force has documented eight "twilight phenomena" at Vandenberg:

Dec. 18, 1962, Scout space booster; March 2, 1965, Minuteman 1; Dec. 15, 1965, Minuteman 2; Jan. 1, 1967, Atlas F; Sept. 21, 1967, Minuteman 1; Sept. 26, 1967, Minuteman 1; Dec. 5, 1967, Scout space booster and Dec. 21, 1967, Minuteman 1.

The spokesman said there may have been earlier displays—missile launches started here in 1958—but no records were kept. Prior to 1962, firings generally were in the daytime.

Do Air Force scientists know in advance that a certain launch is likely to produce space fireworks?

"We know that this is possible if the launch falls between certain hours in clear weather," he said, "but I can assure you we are not going to advertise them. Most of our launch times are secret until the bird goes up."

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

It's All Part of the Game

DEAR ABBY: I am 30 years old, not married, and I work to support myself. I'm not bad looking and live fairly normal, happy life, but I'm beginning to wonder if maybe I'm foolish to work the way I do. What I'm trying to say is, I have a girl friend who works part-time—like maybe two days a week. She has had four husbands and she's single again. She has boy friends for everything. One pays her rent, another lets her drive his car, another painted and papered her whole house and she bragged all she gave him was lunches and a few dauntily kisses.

She sees the rent-payer on week-ends and she also has a truck driver staying with her off and on when he's in town. I don't know how she gets away with it. Shouldn't someone tell these chumps the score?

HER FRIEND

DEAR FRIEND: Don't worry about the chumps. Some men don't care what the score is as long as they're in the game.

DEAR ABBY: I have been dating a boy I'll call Bill for three years. I am 21 and Bill is 23. He has talked about getting married after I graduate from college, but I am not sure he is the one for me, and I have told him so. (I date other boys, too.)

My problem is every gift Bill gives me points toward marriage. For Christmas he gave me service for six in a very nice set of dishes. For Valentine day, he gave me service for 12 in some expensive stainless steel silverware. And for my birthday he gave me an electric blanket.

I don't have a hope chest,

Navy Lt. (J.G.) Arthur C. Buck, Sandusky, was changed from missing to dead-hostile. Melott was the son of Mrs. Nellie Hebron, Pritchard Ave., Lisbon.

'Twilight Phenomena' Awes Observers

By RALPH DIGHTON

VANDENBERG AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (AP) — Space spectaculars of breathtaking design and beauty are occasionally delighting and awing residents of Eastern and Western states.

On the broad canvas of the morning or evening sky, miles-long plumes of pastel smoke appear as if by magic—zigzagging, looping and spiraling in psychedelic splendor. Occasionally there are bursts of green, red or blue light that dazzle beholders up to hundreds

Business Briefs

A registration statement covering a proposed public offering of a new issue of $30 million of sinking fund debentures due 1993 was filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission recently by Container Corporation of America, which has a paperboard mill in Circleville.

Kidder, Peabody & Co., Inc. has been designated as manager of the underwriting group which will offer the debentures to the public.

Net proceeds from the proposed sale of the debentures will be added to the general funds of Container Corporation, and together with internally generated funds will be available for modernization and expansion of existing facilities and the construction of new facilities. The company estimates it will spend approximately $65 million for these purposes from 1968 through 1970.

The debentures will have the benefit of a mandatory sinking fund, commencing in 1974 and calculated to retire 76 per cent of the issue prior to maturity. The debentures may not be refunded before March 15, 1978, at a stipulated annual net interest cost to the company.

To The Community:

We've all read about the rising building costs. Your friends and neighbors have spoken of it.

The BIG question is: Will prices come down in the near future?

The answer seems obvious even though none of them care to admit it. Prices will continue to inch their way upward. The experts seem to agree that inflation is something we are living with and will no doubt have to contend with for many years to come.

Therefore it becomes a matter of WISDOM to think seriously about making a move -- if one is in your plans -- as soon as possible. Never a decision to be hurried but a planned move to a better home that will increase in value as the years go along.

You are invited to come to talk with us and to allow us to lend you our experience. We promise you a frank and honest discussion concerning what would be 'best' for you and your family.

Sincerely,

NEW YORK (AP) — The class in double-talk will please come to order.

As you will remember, students, double-talk represents the final evolution of language in one of its chief functions—the avoidance of meaning.

All successful civilizations are built on double-talk, which is the art of saying one thing while thinking the opposite. Only in savage or barbarian societies do people frankly say what they mean or mean what they say.

Here, for class study, are a few typical examples of modern double-talk—followed by their actual meaning.

"If ever I can be of any possible assistance to you—" Don't call me; I'll call you.

"The best stew here is said to be the best in town. Shall we try it together?" If I could afford steak, I'd tell you to order steak.

"This is one of the cosiest apartments in the building. We call it the Junior Executive Suite." It has a pull-out bed under the refrigerator.

"If you don't mind my saying so, professor, I thought that was the most interesting lecture you've given all this semester."

If I flunk your course, Mr. Lamebrain, my sorority will never initiate me.

"I wouldn't marry him if he were the last man on earth."

He's already got a wife anyway.

"If it is of any encouragement to you, I don't mind letting you know right now that I have mentioned you in my will."

I had to leave my debts to somebody.

"Haven't you been losing a little weight lately, George?" Boy, this guy is really putting it on.

He must eat with a shovel.

"I was just passing through town and thought I'd surprise you with a call."

Every other girl I phoned either didn't answer or already had a date.

"It's such a nice night out, Millicent, it might be more pleasurable if we walked."

If I just close my eyes he'll disappear.

"I love to dance with you, Walter, you're so light on your feet." But so heavy on mine!

"It is always heart-warming to hear from a constituent."

Anybody who doesn't have anything better to do than write doxy letters to his congressman is sure leading a misspent life.

"You are one of those lucky people whose face is their fortune."

Or, in your case, a disaster area.

"Now don't wait for a specific invitation. Phone me anytime."

But when you try to, Buster, you'll find I have an unlisted number.

"When all is said and done, Jim, there's no friends like old friends."

Maybe if I ask him for a 10, he'll lend me a five.

"Long time no see." Maybe if I just close my eyes he'll disappear.

"I TELL YOU how old I'm getting," mourned Red Skelton the other evening. "I no longer can remember who said 'I never met a man I didn't like'—Will Rogers or Zsa Zsa Gabor!"

A dashing movie hero, delight of over a million squealing sixteen-year-olds, was told by his studio head, "It's time you played a different kind of role. For your next picture we're casting you as a miner."

The hero announced firmly, "Nothing doing. The last one I met cost me fifty thousand dollars."

The wife of a Dallas millionaire decided to give her spouse a 135-foot yacht for a birthday present. She instructed the salesman, "I want this to be a complete surprise. Be sure to wrap it so he can't guess what it is."

SIGNS HERE:

At a gas station just north of the Manhattan boundary line: "You have just left New York City. Resume normal breathing."

Near the swimming pool of a Catskill motel: "This pool closed from midnight to 3:00 a.m. That's when we wash the dishes."

At a seaside gift shop: Buy your girl a bikini and see her beam with delight."

At an army recruiting station: "We honor all draft cards."

Speaking of Your Health

I try to dissuade him from such concentration on health because I believe he is truly a hypochondriac. When I tell him this he has a standard answer "Who, Me?" When I say: "Yes, you" that keeps him from discussing illnesses until the next magazine article comes out. How can I help him overcome his fears about illness?

Mrs. B.N.N. New York Dear Mrs. N: I can't quite recall exactly who said this line but it is particularly applicable to the problems of your husband: "It's a good thing I'm a hypochondriac, otherwise I'd be awful sick"

Actually, the chronic complainer about nonexistent illnesses suffers a great deal because of his preoccupation with his own health. The hypochondriac must really be considered to have a psychological illness which deserves sympathy and understanding and not chastisement. He may be devitalized by his fears and anxieties that keep him from being a normal, functioning human being.

Almost everyone has a moderate concern about health. When this concern dominates the life of the hypochondriac he truly is as sick as if he did have the diseases he fears.

The hypochondriac jumps from symptom to symptom, and from disease to disease and is affected by them as if they were completely real.

One of the major objectives in my own newspaper columns is to give to my readers a sense of assurance and to relieve their fears about disease. In fact, I deliberately avoid outlining symptoms because I know that to the reader symptoms can be confusing. So often are symptoms alike that there is a tendency for some readers to say, "That's like what I have" even though there is no basis in truth for such concern.

The hypochondriac usually has deep-seated psychological problems that need to be uncovered by people trained in the art of listening. Sympathy from a member of the family may not relieve his fears and may even make them worse. The hypochondriac may be seeking refuge, in the excuse of

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting American casualties in Vietnam and the prospect that more young men will be sent there are building pressures for changes in the draft system.

Anytime there are more youths of draft age than the military needs, the choice of who goes and who stays home is hard to make, and the present system appears to satisfy no one.

More than a year ago the Defense Department said the policy of drafting the oldest registrants first "was not desirable from any standpoint." Yet it continues.

The president of Harvard recently told Congress the new regulation wiping out deferments for graduate students was bad for the Army, the colleges and the nation.

President Johnson has asked that national standards be applied for draft classifications and congress gave him authority to issue them. But the 4,089 local draft boards still set their own standards and they can vary from county to county.

There is blame enough for everyone in the government for the failure to draw up and implement a system as fair as can be devised, but for congress the failure has been most abject. It had the chance last year to carry out a comprehensive revision of the law and threw the opportunity away.

A presidential commission had spent a year drafting recommendations and Johnson asked that most of them be enacted. But the House Armed Services Committee decreed that no great changes were needed and its view prevailed.

In an exhibition of legislation-by-default, the House rubber-stamped the committee's bill at a session begun late in the day and chopped off peremptorily so members could depart on a long Memorial Day weekend—some on a junket to Paris.

The House had sat until 2 a.m. the night before working on a controversial school bill. The members were tired and crotchety when the draft bill came up and cries of "Vote! Vote!" were heard within an hour.

Sensing his colleagues' mood, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the Armed Services

Committee put through a de-late-limiting motion. It left members with less than a minute to explain major amendments intended to carry out some of the commission's recommendations. All were shouted down.

"We're asking young men to give up two years of their lives," said one unhappy member, "and we won't even give two days of our time to consider this."

The bill resulting from that session will be the law of the land until June 30, 1971, unless the House or Senate Armed services committees can be persuaded to reopen the matter.

Such persuasion is now being attempted, particularly in the Senate, where Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., recently offered a complete overhaul of the law, trying again to put in many of the provisions recommended by last year's commission.

Johnson could institute many of the recommended changes by executive order but he has chosen not to do so. Supporters of the change hope the need for expanded draft calls to meet Vietnam requirements will prompt the President to act.

are more orthodox projects in the works, as, for example, a shop where skilled unionists are training neighborhood youths in automobile repair work, and another center where kids are taught to make ceramics.

And then there is the Watts tree planting that Watkins has started, using his boys and girls. Watkins induced Chad McClellan to cajole one thousand trees — the Ficus Retusa, which can live in city air — from local nursery men at wholesale. The trees were paid for by five of McClellan's business friends who put up the necessary $1,000. The plan is to make Watts a shaded area.

This doesn't touch the hard core unemployed in Watts. But the solution of their problems is being pushed in skill centers, which have two thousand persons enrolled and ten thousand waiting to get in. Police records are forgotten when it comes to hard core job placements. The hard core has its built-in recalcitrance, but the fact that the incendiary Rap Brown managed to collect only forty dollars at a recent meeting Watts could indicate that violence is giving way to sanity even among those with the least to lose.

They're Not Waiting

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

LOS ANGELES — If, in the middle of a war, slum dwellers are led to believe that a multi-billion dollar federal crash program is about to endow them with instant jobs, homes and a $3,000-a-year basic family income, they are in for a disappointment — and the nation is in for more rioting. The better way is already in the works in the Watts "curfew area" in Los Angeles, where the Negro, with the help of some truly enlightened businessmen, labor officials, community leaders, and an understanding City Hall, is busy trying to turn his environment into his capital resource.

The Watts-Compton environment, of course, is infinitely more salvageable than the congested brownstones of Harlem in New York or the urban warrens of Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn. To the visiting easterner, Watts is no ghetto; its wooden cottages stand amid lawns that are sometimes well-kept, there is new paint on some houses, the sun shines, and the smog is no worse than elsewhere in Los Angeles County. If it were only the physical environment in Watts, there would have been no riots; the causes were surely economic and psychological, and had more to do with grievances dating back to the past Civil War period in the South than to anything else. Obviously it is recognition as human beings that Watts is asking for primarily; the physical surroundings can — and will — be upgraded.

Watts is producing its own leaders, who are not to be confused with the desperados that organized themselves for violence after the riots of two and a half years ago. One of these leaders, Ted Watkins, an old United Automobile Workers man, who wears diamond rings and likes "bright green shirts, has a special way with kids, whether by two and threes or by the hundreds. Watkins is a "motivated fellow," as Mayo Sam Yorty describes him — and his greatest supporter outside of Watts is H.C. — or "Chad" — McClellan, the former head of the National Association of Manufacturers who formed the Management Council for Merit Employment, Training, and Research after the riots, and proceeded to find jobs for 17,903 of the Watts unemployed.

"When an NAM'er like me," says McClellan, "can join with a labor leader like Watkins, he's got to be good."

Without losing any of his massive dignity, Watkins has a cajoling way with him. The other day his Watts Labor Community Action Committee took possession of a tractor, the gift of the Ford Motor Company. No less a person than Walter Reuther, boss of the United Automobile Workers, accepted the tractor for Watts, with an odd little speech about the "private sector" — management, labor, and the local community — solving problems that the government hasn't gotten around to.

The tractor, however, was only the frosting on the cake. It is needed because Watkins had already caddied the use of thirty acres of unplowed land that happens to be the right-of-way in Watts of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. Ted Watkins intends to lure hundreds of those children who took part in the riots into farming the thirty acres for themselves at a profit. There will be a poultry business, too. If this seems like a strange adventure for a city slum, there are more orthodox projects in the works, as, for example, a shop where skilled unionists are training neighborhood youths in automobile repair work, and another center where kids are taught to make ceramics.

And then there is the Watts tree planting that Watkins has started, using his boys and girls. Watkins induced Chad McClellan to cajole one thousand trees — the Ficus Retusa, which can live in city air — from local nursery men at wholesale. Witnesses' Assembly Ends

WASHINGTON C. H. — Jehovah's Witnesses' three-day circuit assembly, first of two planned for 1968 ended here with a peak attendance of 1,985 reported at the final session. The number included 70 delegates from the Circleville congregation, headed by Billie Lemaster, presiding minister.

Delivering the principal address was Andrew Laguna, the Witnesses' district overseer for Ohio and parts of two other states. His audience included Bible instructors from 16 different congregations located in 12 central Ohio counties.

Lemaster revealed that another circuit assembly will be held sometime in the fall, and that much larger gatherings of Jehovah's Witnesses are scheduled this summer.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The millions of annual reports now being received by the nation's 24 million stockholders will, on examination, show some interesting departures from their original purposes.

The basic legal requirement for a report is that it detail the company's financial condition and be in the hands of stockholders before the annual meeting, which generally comes in April.

However, these yearly summaries have become far more than legal documents. An examination of this year's crop of reports shows that in addition to giving the facts to stockholders they are being used for:

— College recruitment, as in the case of J.C. Penney Co. and others who feel an annual report is a good way to impress a favorable image on youth.

— Selling products to stockholders, particularly by the automotive firms.

— Gaining the interest of companies wishing to be acquired — or gaining the interest of companies seeking to acquire others.

— Attracting the eye and rousing the interest of security analysts, whose recommendations to stock buyers can effect a company's future.

This is not to say that the stockholder is forgotten, because all the fancy photography, expensive color, modern design and high quality editorial work is meant to impress him too.

Most annual reports land on a stockholder's desk within a few weeks of each other and therefore are readily compared. No company can afford to look second best in the comparison test; they must go with the finest.

"You just have to have something that stacks up against the competition," says Richard Lewis, president of Corporate Annual Reports, a young company that specializes in producing reports for corporations.

"It's a competitive book," Lewis maintains. "You must create a favorable impression relative to other annual reports."

As a result, many companies this year are emphasizing long-range prospects. The reason: profits were down in 1967.

William Kemsley, another specialist, emphasizes the importance of creating a favorable appearance with stock analysts. "There are twice as many of them today — 12,000 or so — as there were six years ago," he explains. "And some of them are less sophisticated than those of a decade ago."

To produce and mail an annual issue can cost some companies well over $100,000, as in the case of American Telephone and Telegraph, which must distribute more than three million copies a year.

I try to dissuade him from such concentration on health because I believe he is truly a hypochondriac. When I tell him this he has a standard answer: "Who, Me?"

When I say: "Yes, you," that keeps him from discussing illnesses until the next magazine article comes out. How can I help him overcome his fears about illness?

Mrs. B.N.N. New York Dear Mrs. N: I can't quite recall exactly who said this line but it is particularly applicable to the problems of your husband: "It's a good thing I'm a hypochondriac, otherwise I'd be awful sick!"

Actually, the chronic complainer about nonexistent illnesses suffers a great deal because of his preoccupation with his own health. The hypochondriac must really be considered to have a psychological illness which deserves sympathy and understanding and not chastisement. He may be devitalized by his fears and anxieties that keep him from being a normal, functioning human being.

Most everyone has a moderate concern about health. When this concern dominates the life of the hypochondriac he truly is as sick as if he did have the diseases he fears.

The hypochondriac jumps from symptom to symptom, and from disease to disease and is affected by them as if they were completely real.

One of the major objectives in my own newspaper columns is to give to my readers a sense of assurance and to relieve their fears about disease. In fact, I deliberately avoid outlining symptoms because I know that to the reader symptoms can be confusing. So often are symptoms alike that there is a tendency for some readers to say, "That's like what I have" even though there is no basis in truth for such concern.

The hypochondriac usually has deep-seated psychological problems that need to be uncovered by people trained in the art of listening. Sympathy from a member of the family may not relieve his fears and may even make them worse. The hypochondriac may be seeking refuge, in the excuse of illness, to avoid coming face-to-face with daily activities and to cope with the problems of living.

Accusing someone of being a hypochondriac calls forth the "who me" response as a defensive mechanism. Your husband may take this as an accusation and as a reflection on his personal security.

The hypochondriac must be encouraged to seek psychological guidance for a better understanding of his emotional confusion and distress. When this is clarified for him many of the symptoms may disappear. He must not be shamed by your attitude but rather supported by your understanding.

It must be remembered that hypochondriacs do develop real disease and have as much right as anyone else to illnesses as those who are not psychologically disturbed. Only too often their illnesses may go unrecognized because of the frequency with which they cry "wolf" about a fanciful illness.

The modern doctor is trained in the art of understanding the psychological problems of patients like your husband. The general practitioner is said to be the first line of defense in dealing with emotional problems. They listen intently and allow patients to express their fears and anxieties.

Then, with reassuring explanation, the frightened hypochondriac and the temporarily emotionally disturbed patient is given the support they need. You cannot give him the direction of a psychologist to help him overcome his fears.

Patients are easily exhausted by visitors who stay too long at their bedside.

Pamphlet Urges Draft Harassment

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is investigating a pamphlet distributed to antiwar groups which blueprints a nationwide campaign of harassment against the more than 17,000 members of local draft boards.

But while confirming existence of the pamphlet, a department spokesman said Wednesday night: "We know of no activity being taken or planned to implement the plan of the publication."

The World Today

By JOHN BECKLER (For James Marlow)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mounting American casualties in Vietnam and the prospect that more young men will be sent there are building pressures for changes in the draft system.

Anytime there are more youths of draft age than the military needs, the choice of who goes and who stays home is hard to make, and the present system appears to satisfy no one.

More than a year ago the Defense Department said the policy of drafting the oldest registrants first "was not desirable from any standpoint." Yet it continues.

The president of Harvard recently told Congress the new regulation wiping out deferments for graduate students was bad for the Army, the colleges and the nation.

President Johnson has asked that national standards be applied for draft classifications and congress gave him authority to issue them. But the 4,089 local draft boards still set their own standards and they can vary from county to county.

There is blame enough for everyone in the government for the failure to draw up and implement a system as fair as can be devised, but for congress the failure has been most abject. It had the chance last year to carry out a comprehensive revision of the law and threw the opportunity away.

A presidential commission had spent a year drafting recommendations and Johnson asked that most of them be enacted. But the House Armed Services Committee decreed that no great changes were needed and its view prevailed.

In an exhibition of legislation-by-default, the House rubber-stamped the committee's bill at a session begun late in the day and chopped off peremptorily some members could depart on a long Memorial Day weekend—some on a junket to Paris.

The House had sat until 2 a.m. the night before working on a controversial school bill. The members were tired and crochety when the draft bill came up and cries of "Vote! Vote!" were heard within an hour.

Sensing his colleagues' mood, Chairman L. Mendel Rivers, D-S.C., of the Armed Services

Committee put through a debate-limiting motion. It left members with less than a minute to explain major amendments intended to carry out some of the commission's recommendations. All were shouted down.

"We're asking young men to give up two years of their lives," said one unhappy member, "and we won't even give two days of our time to consider this."

The bill resulting from that session will be the law of the land until June 30, 1971, unless the House or Senate Armed Services committees can be persuaded to reopen the matter.

Such persuasion is now being attempted, particularly in the Senate, where Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., recently offered a complete overhaul of the law, trying again to put in many of the provisions recommended by last year's commission.

Johnson could institute many of the recommended changes by executive order but he has chosen not to do so. Supporters of the change hope the need for expanded draft calls to meet Vietnam requirements will prompt the President to act.

They're Not Waiting

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

LOS ANGELES — If, in the middle of a war, slum dwellers are led to believe that a multi-billion dollar federal crash program is about to endow them with instant jobs, homes and a $3,000-a-year basic family income, they are in for a disappointment — and the nation is in for more rioting. The better way is already in the works in the Watts "curfew area" in Los Angeles, where the Negro, with the help of some truly enlightened businessmen, labor officials, community leaders, and an understanding City Hall, is busy trying to turn his environment into his capital resource.

The Watts-Compton environment, of course, is infinitely more salvageable than the congested brownstones of Harlem in New York or the urban warrens of Bedford-Stuyvesant in Brooklyn. To the visiting easterner, Watts is no ghetto; its wooden cottages stand amid lawns that are sometimes well-kept, there is sun shines, and the smog is no worse than elsewhere in Los Angeles County. If it were only the physical environment in Watts, there would have been no riots; the causes were surely economic and psychological, and had more to do with grievances dating back to the past Civil War period in the South than to anything else. Obviously it is recognition as human beings that Watts is asking for primarily; the physical surroundings can — and will — be upgraded.

Watts is producing its own leaders, who are not to be confused with the desperados that organized themselves for violence after the riots of two and a half years ago. One of these leaders, Ted Watkins, an old United Automobile Workers man, who wears diamond rings and likes bright green shirts, has a special way with kids, whether by twos and threes or by the hundreds. Watkins is a "motivated fellow," as Mayo Sam Yorty describes him — and his greatest supporter outside of Watts is H.C. — or "Chad" — McClellan, the former head of the National Association of Manufacturers who formed the Management Council for Merit Employment, Training, and Research after the riots, and proceeded to find jobs for 17,903 of the Watts unemployed.

"When a N.A.M.-er like me," says McClellan, "can join with a labor leader like Watkins, he's got to be good."

Without losing any of his massive dignity, Watkins has a cajoling way with him. The other day his Watts Labor Community Action Committee took possession of a tractor, the gift of the Ford Motor Company. No less a person than Walter Reuther, boss of the United Automobile Workers, accepted the tractor for Watts, with an odd little speech about the "private sector" — management, labor, and the local community—solving problems that the government hasn't gotten around to.

The tractor, however, was only the frosting on the cake. It is needed because Watkins had already caged the use of thirty acres of unplowed land that happens to be the right-of-way in Watts of the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power. Ted Watkins intends to lure hundreds of those children who took part in the riots into farming the thirty acres for themselves at a profit. There will be a poultry business, too. If this seems like a strange adventure for a city slum, there are more orthodox projects in the works, as, for example, a shop where skilled unionists are training neighborhood youths in automobile repair work, and another center where kids are taught to make ceramics.

And then there is the Watts tree planting that Watkins has started, using his boys and girls. Watkins induced Chad McClellan to cajole one thousand trees — the Ficus Retusa, which can live in city air — from local nursery men at wholesale. The trees were paid for by five of McClellan's business friends who put up the necessary $1,000. The plan is to make Watts a shaded area.

This doesn't touch the hard core unemployed in Watts. But the solution of their problems is being pushed in skill centers, which have two thousand persons enrolled and ten thousand waiting to get in. Police records are forgotten when it comes to hard core job placements. The hard core has its built-in recalcitrance, but the fact that the incendiary Rap Brown managed to collect only forty dollars at a recent meeting Watts could indicate that violence is giving way to sanity even among those with the least to lose.

Witnesses' Assembly Ends

WASHINGTON C. H. — Jehovah's Witnesses' three-day circuit assembly, first of two planned for 1968 ended here with a peak attendance of 1,985 reported at the final session. The number included 70 delegates from the Circleville congregation, headed by Billie Lemaster, presiding minister.

Delivering the principal address was Andrew Laguna, the Witnesses' district overseer for Ohio and parts of two other states. His audience included Bible instructors from 16 different congregations located in 12 central Ohio counties.

Lemaster revealed that another circuit assembly will be held sometime in the fall, and that much larger gatherings of Jehovah's Witnesses are scheduled this summer.

Island Observatory

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — A small island in 6,000-foot-high Big Bear Lake north of San Bernardino will be the site of a new California Institute of Technology solar observatory. The site was chosen because of the still, clear air over the lake.

In 1848, an expedition led by John Charles Fremont reached Sutter's Fort in California.

Five years ago—The government of Syria was overthrown in a coup by army officers friendly to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of the United Arab Republic.

One year ago—Striking Irish farmers clashed with police outside Dublin.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — The millions of annual reports now being received by the nation's 24 million stockholders will, on examination, show some interesting departures from their original purposes.

The basic legal requirement for a report is that it detail the company's financial condition and be in the hands of stockholders before the annual meeting, which generally comes in April.

However, these yearly summaries have become far more than legal documents. An examination of this year's crop of reports shows that in addition to giving the facts to stockholders they are being used for:

— College recruitment, as in the case of J.C. Penney Co. and others who feel an annual report is a good way to impress a favorable image on youth.

— Selling products to stockholders, particularly by the automotive firms.

— Gaining the interest of companies wishing to be acquired — or gaining the interest of companies seeking to acquire others.

— Attracting the eye and rousing the interest of security analysts, whose recommendations to stock buyers can effect a company's future.

This is not to say that the stockholder is forgotten, because all the fancy photography, expensive color, modern design and high quality editorial work is meant to impress him too.

Most annual reports land on a stockholder's desk within a few weeks of each other and therefore are readily compared. No company can afford to look second best in the comparison test; they must go with their finest.

"You just have to have something that stacks up against the competition," says Richard Lewis, president of Corporate Annual Reports, a young company that specializes in producing reports for corporations.

"It's a competitive book," Lewis maintains. "You must create a favorable impression relative to other annual reports." As a result, many companies this year are emphasizing long-range prospects. The reason: profits were down in 1967.

William Kemsley, another specialist, emphasizes the importance of creating a favorable appearance with stock analysts. "There are twice as many of them today — 12,000 or so — as there were six years ago," he explains, "and some of them are less sophisticated than those of a decade ago."

To produce and mail an annual issue can cost some companies well over $100,000, as in the case of American Telephone and Telegraph, which must distribute more than three million copies a year.

George Kennedy

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-Television Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—George Kennedy, who owns the face that movie geeks love to hit, is finally getting up off the floor, thanks in large part to the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences.

There's nothing like an Oscar nomination to boost a career.

Kennedy's nomination for his rough dim-witted convict in "Cool Hand Luke" is helping to elevate him from his position as punching bag for John Wayne, Kirk Douglas and other brave stars.

Right now he's playing the detective who tracks down the killer in "The Boston Strangler." Next he gets a lead in "Guns of the Magnificent Seven" with Henry Fonda and Tony Curtis.

The rough-hewn Kennedy can thank "Cool Hand Luke" for breaking him out of the type casting as the highly punchable heavy. He also thanks Robert Mitchum.

"Warner Brothers wanted Mitchum to play the role of Paul Newman's 'Buddy,'" Kennedy reported. "Apparently he was interested, but they also asked me to test for it, and I jumped at the chance. I could see that it was a great part, and it would give me an opportunity to act decently on the screen for a change."

"Fortunately for me, Mitchum turned down the role because he didn't want to take second billing to Newman. So I lucked out."

George Kennedy has had a strange history—boy actor, career soldier, movie villain. He was born into a theatrical family; his father was an orchestra leader, his mother a ballet dancer. Young George started acting at 2, touring with a road company of "Bringing Up Father." Later he turned radio actor and disc jockey.

He enlisted in the Army at 17 and served in European battles. After the war he re-enlisted.

"I don't know why, exactly," he admits. "Mainly it was because I had no one to turn to for advice. My father had died, and I had no man I could discuss my future with—that's why I'm so active in the Big Brother organization now. The Army keeps pushing security at you; so I kept signing up again. This went on for 16 years." He served much of his time in armed forces radio, ending up as a captain.

Kennedy might still be in the Army except for a chance assignment as technical adviser on Phil Silvers' "Sgt. Bilko" television show. He succumbed to the urge to perform again, and after his discharge he went to work on "Bilko" as bandy-man and sometime actor, usually as an MP. After the show folded, Kennedy came west.

Five Points

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Jones of Bainbridge and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Holcomb of Springfield were Sunday afternoon guests of Mr. and Mrs. Miley Drummond.

Francis Furniss entered Grant Hospital, Columbus, Tuesday as a surgical patient. Mrs. Edna McPherson had the misfortune to break her ankle in a fall last week. She is a patient in Fayette Memorial Hospital, Washington C. H.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Finch children Kimberly Sue and Dennis were Sunday dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Finch. The occasion celebrated Mrs. Tom Finch's birthday. Mr. and Mrs. Robert See, Chri Ann and Todd were afternoon guests.

BARBED WIRE and Babbling Brooks

Spring sun shines on babbling brooks — and barbed wire. A bird song lilts prettily on fragrant air — and a sniper shot splits the silence. New green burgeons through brown winter grasses — and red blood drenches jungle earth.

One's description of the season depends upon location. In some parts of the world there are happy people, enjoying the spring, looking forward to Easter services. Other faces of this globe find suffering people, anguished by the sunshine, hungry, afraid, lonely, dying.

Centuries ago on black Calvary hill, Jesus of Nazareth demonstrated perfect love. Down through the ages, His life and teachings have pointed the way for mankind to heal the ills of the world.

So, in this Lenten season let us offer ourselves—our time and talents—to the service of His Church, in its task of making His kingdom come upon earth.

Five Points

BARBED WIRE and Babbling Brooks

Spring sun shines on babbling brooks — and barbed wire. A bird song lilts prettily on fragrant air — and a sniper shot splits the silence. New green burgeons through brown winter grasses — and red blood drenches jungle earth.

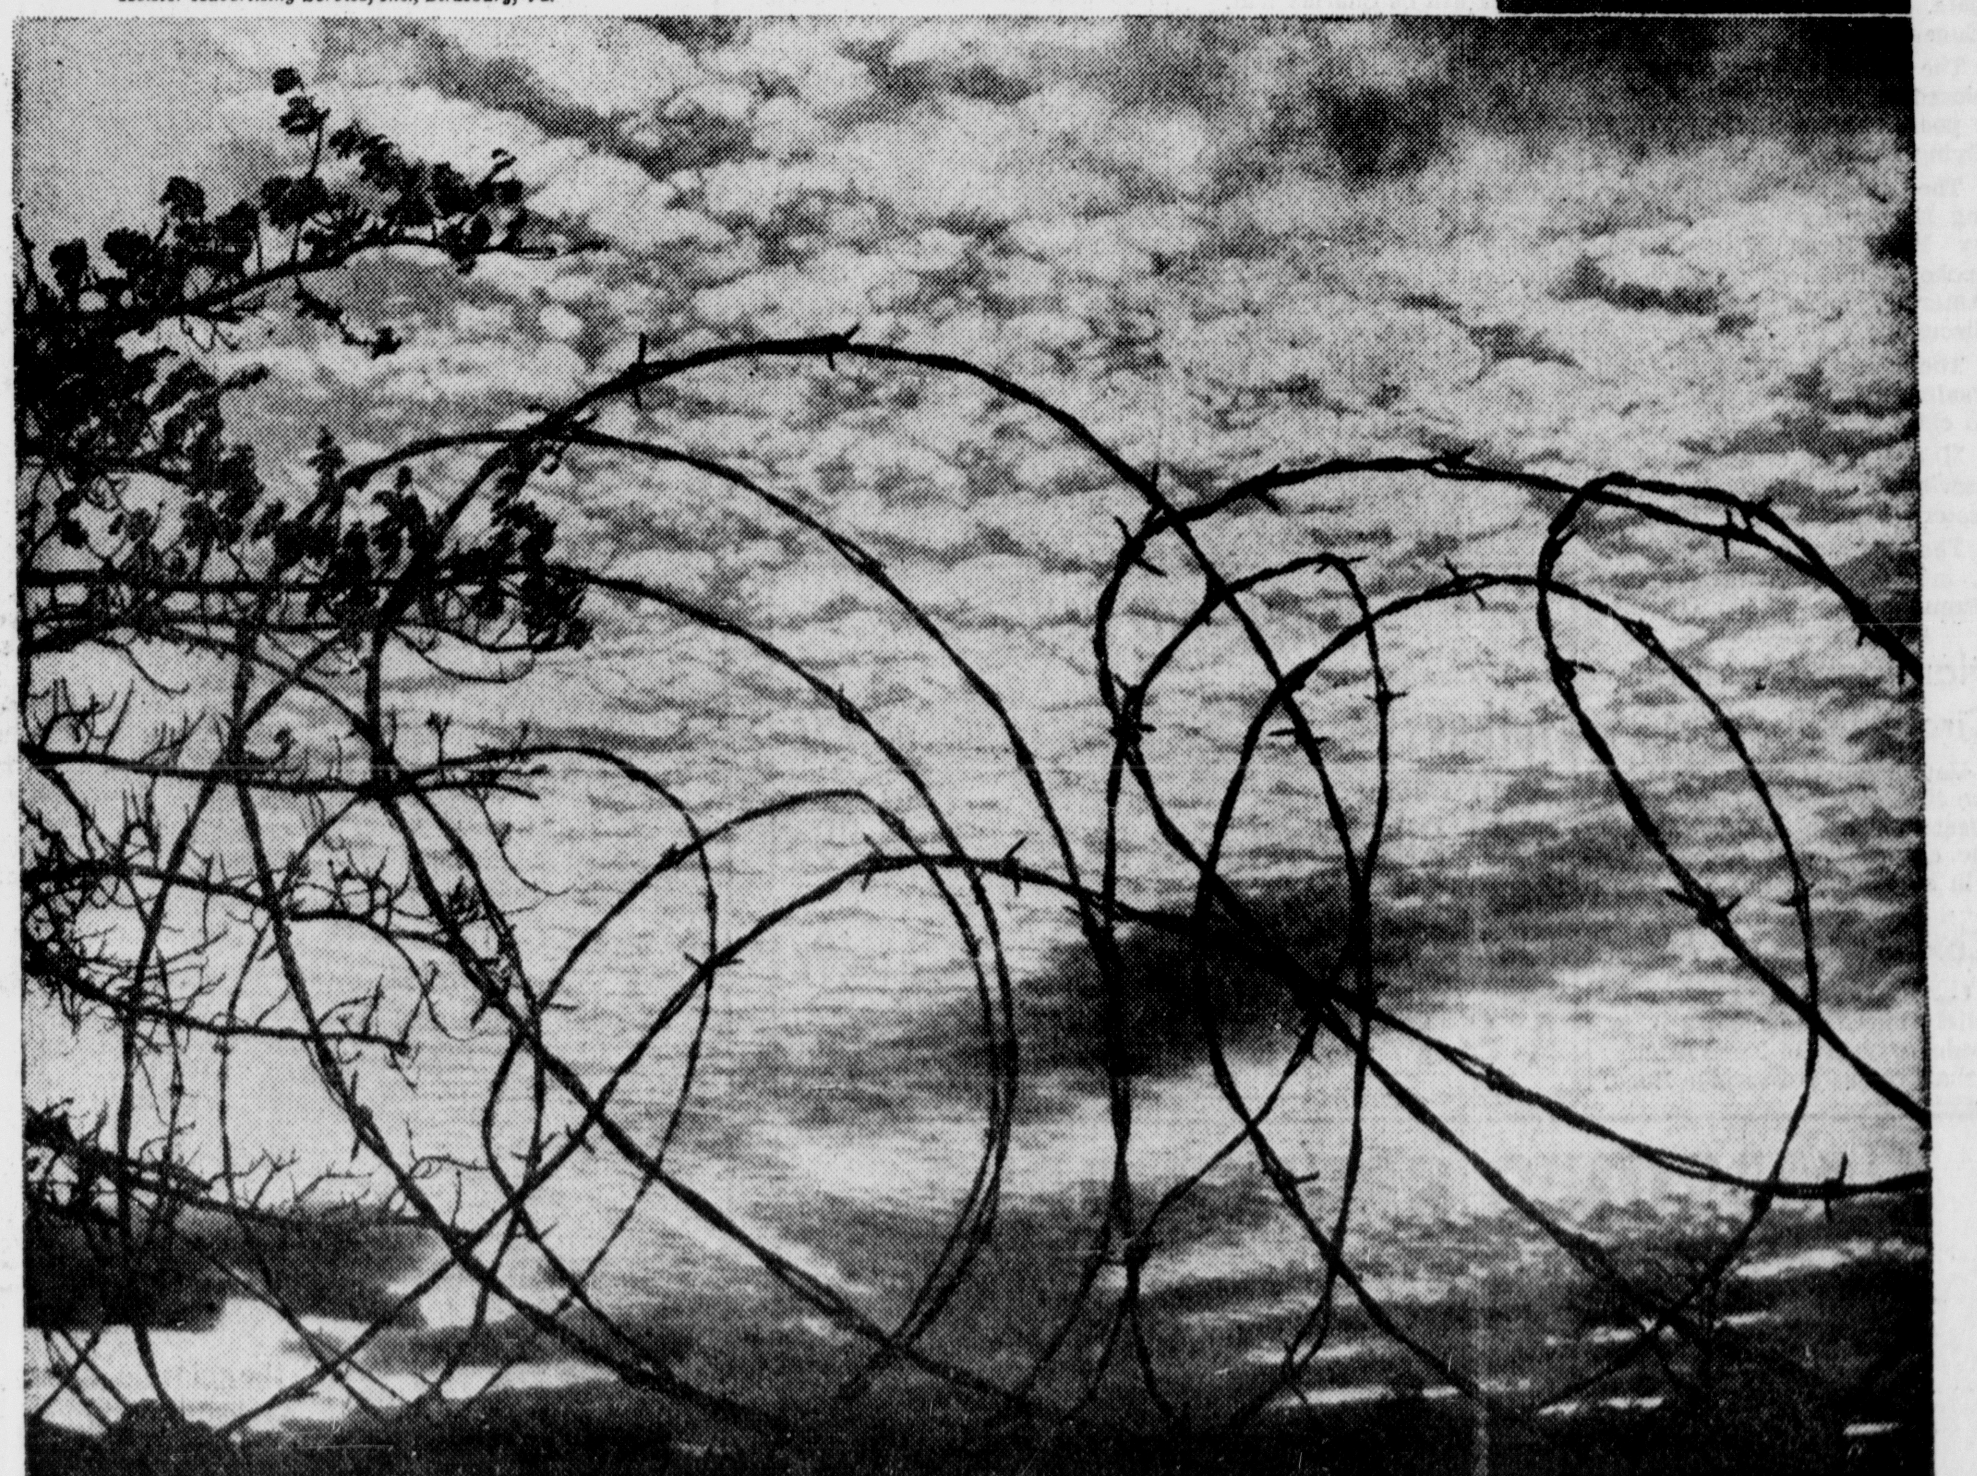

One's description of the season depends upon location. In some parts of the world there are happy people, enjoying the spring, looking forward to Easter services. Other faces of this globe find suffering people, anguished by the sunshine, hungry, afraid, lonely, dying.

Centuries ago on black Calvary hill, Jesus of Nazareth demonstrated perfect love. Down through the ages, His life and teachings have pointed the way for mankind to heal the ills of the world.

So, in this Lenten season let us offer ourselves—our time and talents—to the service of His Church, in its task of making His kingdom come upon earth.

Protestant Group Eyes Viet War

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — An enterprising Protestant denomination is taking on some unusual tasks, including an effort to let people know what individual congressmen think about the Vietnam war.

"This is a prime moral concern of our times," said the Rev. Dr. Everett Parker, director of the Office of Communications of the United Church of Christ.

"We think it's important to help encourage a fuller clarification of viewpoints between government representatives and the public on this whole matter of peace."

The United Church, a two-million-member communion which has pioneered concrete steps in the cause of Christian reunion, also has undertaken several other uncommon projects, including:

—Setting up watchdog committees in local communities to keep check on radio and television broadcasts, on the lookout against the airing of material reflecting bias against Negroes.

—Establishing community groups to guard against extremist tactics to vilify individual public leaders, educators, ministers or institutions by loose accusations or name-calling on the air, or otherwise.

The objective, Dr. Parker said, is "not censorship but balance"—to try to see to it that misleading impressions aren't being foisted on the citizenry about persons or programs by one-sided attacks, from left or right.

Both of the broadcast-monitoring projects have been underwritten by foundations. The one on extremism by grants totaling $85,000 from the Field Foundation and the AFL-CIO, and the one on racism by a $160,000 grant from the Ford Foundation.

Under the plan for guarding against racially distorted broadcasts, steps were under way this week to form local committees in 10 Southern cities, with others to be formed later in many other places, including the Northern communities.

"We'll go into any community where responsible groups want us to come," Dr. Parker said.

Local committees are given guidance on analyzing broadcasts for possible discriminatory material, and when patterns of bias are discovered, evidence is to be documented and discussed with station management.

If, and only if, that effort fails to correct the situation, action would be taken to formally monitor and record allegedly biased programs, with findings and petitions against station license renewal presented to the Federal Communications Commission.

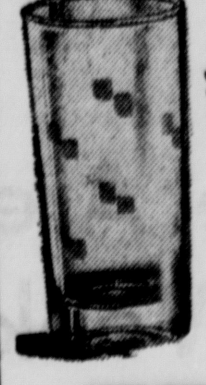

While the various projects are a new sort of operation for a religious body, the United Church is experienced at innovation and initiative.

The denomination itself, a merger of the independent-minded Congregational Christian Churches of British origin and the Evangelical and Reformed Church of German origin, is the first merger in the nation's history to unite traditions of different governing styles and national backgrounds.

One of the denomination's man of the Consultation on pastors, the Rev. Dr. David Colwell, of Washington, is chair-

First Red and Black Page Appeared in 1924 in Herald

By JACK CARLE and SANDY TRACY

The journalism class, of which the Red and Black is a product, was organized in 1924. The papers were printed as a part of The Circleville Herald's Saturday afternoon edition. The numbers of the classes, then as now, consisted of about twenty students. The papers lasted until 1943.

The current wave of Red and Black pages began in 1964, as journalism made its first appearance in CHS curriculum in over twenty years. The first semester in 1964, The Trumpet was published as a one time project.

The textbook we are now using is entitled, "Experience in Journalism," published by Tyons and Carnahan, an affiliate of Meredith Publishing Co. Journalism receives much writing and editing experience, in that everyone has an assignment each week, and new editors are elected by their fellow students each month.

Mrs. Janet Boggs has been a patient and helpful advisor for journalism since 1964.

Find Willard Paintings in WCH Home

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—A number of paintings believed to be the work of the artist who painted the "Spirit of '76" have been found on walls of a house here.

The works, believed painted by Archibald M. Willard when he lived here during the last century, were revealed during interior redecoration of the house. Willard also is known for three large murals he painted in the Fayette County Courthouse here in the 1880s.

Removing wallpaper from a room in her home, once the residence of Judge Joel S. Bereman, Miss Marion Moore uncovered a wall panel and ceiling frescoes which have been attributed to Willard.

B. E. Kelley, curator of the Fayette County Historical Society museum, investigated and found a spread eagle resting on the American shield, with two flags on each side. He said this was definitely one of Willard's creations. On the ceiling, he found more paintings and scroll work.

Kelley said the paintings seemed in pretty good condition and that Miss Moore planned to have them preserved.

Scioto Valley Conference Announces All-Star Team

The Scioto Valley Conference All-League basketball team was announced today by the coaches. Laurelville placed three men on the coaches' dream team, Logan Elm two, Westfall two, Union two and Picketon and Paint Valley one each.

Instead of naming a first and second team, conference coaches this year selected an 11-man unit. Five other cagers were on the honorable mention list. The player of the year was Mike Kinnamon, Paint Valley's fine all-around athlete. Paint Valley finished fifth in the six team high school athletic union.

FROM Laurelville, Bob Bowers, senior center; Jeff Whitcraft, senior forward and Mike

Kneece, junior guard, were named to the first unit. Logan Elm's two selections were Royce Woolever, 6-8 junior center, and little Danny Fausnaugh, the left-handed sophomore guard.

From Westfall, a pair of senior guards, Charles Palmer and Andy Hamman were selected. Union's outstanding duo of Dave Juenger, a junior center, and Fred Lovely, senior forward received the coaches' nod for berths on the squad.

Picketon placed the only other sophomore besides Fausnaugh on the squad, David Waldron. The SVC Coach of the Year award went to the mentors of the two co-champions, Charles Pritchard of Logan Elm and Clyde Crewey of Laurelville.

The honorable mention list includes Mike Chestnut, senior, Laurelville; Dennis Karshner, junior, Logan Elm; Dave Purdum and Dean Knapp, seniors, Paint Valley; Tony Lightle, junior, Westfall.

KINNAMON and Bowers are repeaters from last year's All-Star squad. Hamman and Kneece were second team All-Star members a year ago.

The coach of the year last year was Dick Graham of Laurelville, who resigned his teaching position to accept a job in private industry.

Palmer is Westfall's leading scorer, averaging nearly 18 points per game. Hamman was the second leading scorer for the Mustangs with a 12-plus average during the season.

Woolever and Fausnaugh were the top scorers for Logan Elm's Braves while Bower and Kneece paced the Laurelville Wildcats offensively. Whitcraft was one of the top defensive players in the conference.

Logan Elm advanced further in tournament play this year than any other team in the league, getting to the district before losing.

Reds Threaten Olympic Boycott

MOSCOW (AP) — The Russians are threatening to pull out, along with some 40 other nations, but Avery Brundage and host Mexico contend there is no change in plans for the Olympic Games.

"Everything is still as is," Brundage, the president of the International Olympic Committee said in Chicago Thursday after the Russians had delivered a sharply worded demand that South Africa be omitted from the Games.

And in Mexico City, site of the October Games, lodging control officer Ramon Alatorre said none of the nations that have announced their boycotts have yet canceled their room reservations.

Tobin Bronze Seeks Big Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Last Saturday, Australian-born Tobin Bronze won a race named after Irish-bred Azucar. This Saturday, Tobin Bronze will try to do something Azucar did in 1935—win the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

The 6-year-old Australian champion will carry high weight of 124 pounds in the expected field of 15 for the 1 1/4-mile Santa Anita classic.

Jim Ard Honored

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cincinnati's Jim Ard was named 1968 sophomore of the year in Missouri Valley Conference basketball today. The 6-foot-8 Bearcat scored 13.9 points per game and averaged 9.0 rebounds a game during his rookie season.

Blood Spills In Boston, Philly Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's been bad blood between Eddie Shack and Larry Zeidel for 10 years and Thursday night some of it spilled.

Shack, the burly Boston forward, and Zeidel, a Philadelphia defenseman who has brawled his way through 17 seasons of professional hockey, cut each other about the head in an agonizing stick-swinging duel that cost each player a match penalty, automatic $100 fine and possible suspension.

The National Hockey League game was played on neutral Toronto ice—Philadelphia's Spectrum is closed because of wind damage—and Boston eked out a 2-1 victory to climb within one point of idle New York in the race for second place in the East Division.

Los Angeles and Minnesota moved into a second-place tie in the West, two points behind Philadelphia. The Kings walked Oakland, 9-2, while the North Stars battled to a 2-2 deadlock with Pittsburgh.

Pipers Win Over Oaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's going to be difficult to dislodge Connie Hawkins from the No. 1 spot in the individual scoring race in the American Basketball Association.

He strengthened his hold on the top rung by tossing in 39 points Thursday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pipers to a 119-114 road victory over the Oakland Oaks.

It was the 12th straight victory over the Oaks, but the Oaks were in contention until the last two minutes before losing their seventh in a row. The Oaks pulled within 112-111 before two free throws each by Hawkins and Chico Vaughn put the Pipers out of danger.

The Minnesota Muskies also scored on the road over Anaheim 124-115 and the Houston Mavericks won at home over the Indiana Pacers 115-104 in the other ABA games scheduled.

Knudson Behind In Doral Open

MIAMI (AP) — For two happy weeks, George Knudson rode smoothly along golf's glory road. Then came the detour.

The lanky, red-haired Canadian had won two straight tournaments. He had a chance in the $100,000 Doral Open to make it three in a row—a feat last accomplished in 1960 when Arnold Palmer racked up the Texas, Baton Rouge and Pensacola opens in succession.

But in Thursday's opening round, Knudson veered onto a sidetrack rough with bogeys.

"It was a terrible effort," he said after posting a 76 and winding up 11 distant strokes behind the leader, Gardner Dickinson.

Miami Leader In Swim Contests

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Led by John Russell, defending champion Miami took a commanding lead Thursday night after the first five events in the Mid-American Conference swimming championships.

Three conference records were set and another tied.

Miami leads with 45 1/2 points. Ohio University is second with 29, Bowling Green third with 26, Kent State fourth with 18 1/2 and Western Michigan fifth with 11.

14 of 16 Teams Recieve Notice Of NIT Pairing

NEW YORK (AP) — Fourteen of the 16 teams in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament have received word on their first round opponents. Only the Oklahoma City Chiefs remain in the dark today, knowing only that they will have perhaps the toughest time reaching the second round.

The pairings, released Thursday for the 31st annual tourney at Madison Square Garden, pits Oklahoma City against the runner-up of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which ends Saturday.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina and sixth-ranked Duke are expected to battle for the title and the automatic bid to the NCAA tourney. The second place team goes to the NIT, which does not give the Chiefs much to choose from. Either North Carolina or Duke will be an NIT favorite with the ACC team already seeded first.

The Chiefs, 20-6, face the ACC runner-up in the second half of the opening night doubleheader next Thursday after Marshall, 17-7, and St. Peter's, 22-2, tangle in the first game.

Actually, the tournament, expanded from 14 to 16 teams last week, had no seedings, but it was learned that the draw was built around the ACC team,

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Providence College is looking for a new hockey coach.

Lakers Top SD Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henry Finkel topped his entire 1966-67 season output, but he couldn't keep the San Diego Rockets from tying another National Basketball Association record for futility.

Finkel scored 41 points Thursday night, one more than he scored in 27 games as a rookie with the Los Angeles Lakers last season, as the Rockets lost to the Lakers 119-102.

For the Rockets, who have won just 15 times in 76 games, the loss was their 29th at home, tying an NBA record set by the 1964-65 San Francisco Warriors. Earlier this season, the Rockets lost 17 straight, which tied a league mark held by those same Warriors.

In other NBA games Thursday, Philadelphia topped Cincinnati 125-117, Chicago upset Boston 118-112 and St. Louis outlasted Seattle 159-133.

Scioto Valley Conference Announces All-Star Team

The Scioto Valley Conference All-League basketball team was announced today by the coaches. Laurelville placed three men on the coaches' dream team, Logan Elm two, Westfall two, Unioto two and Piketon and Paint Valley one each.

Instead of naming a first and second team, conference coaches this year selected an 11-man unit. Five other cagers were on the honorable mention list.

The player of the year was Mike Kinnamon, Paint Valley's fine all-around athlete. Paint Valley finished fifth in the six team high school athletic union.

Kneece, junior guard, were named to the first unit.

Logan Elm's two selections were Royce Woolever, 6-8 junior center, and little Danny Fausnaugh, the left-handed sophomore guard.

From Westfall, a pair of senior guards, Charles Palmer and Andy Hamman were selected. Unioto's outstanding duo of Dave Juenger, a junior center, and Fred Lovely, senior forward received the coaches' nod for berths on the squad.

Piketon placed the only other sophomore besides Fausnaugh on the squad, David Waldron.

The SVC Coach of the Year award went to the mentors of the two co-champions, Charles Pritchard of Logan Elm and Clyde Crewley of Laurelville.

Lakers Top SD Rockets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Henry Finkel topped his entire 1966-67 season output, but he couldn't keep the San Diego Rockets from tying another National Basketball Association record for futility.

Finkel scored 41 points Thursday night, one more than he scored in 27 games as a rookie with the Los Angeles Lakers last season, as the Rockets lost to the Lakers 119-102.

For the Rockets, who have won just 15 times in 76 games, the loss was their 29th at home, tying an NBA record set by the 1964-65 San Francisco Warriors. Earlier this season, the Rockets lost 17 straight, which tied a league mark held by those same Warriors.

In other NBA games Thursday, Philadelphia topped Cincinnati 125-117, Chicago upset Boston 118-112 and St. Louis outlasted Seattle 150-133.

Arm Beats Navy
MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP)—The Army All-Star team downed the Navy 83-77 Thursday night to win the 1968 Interservice Basketball Championships.

KINNAMON and Bowers are repeaters from last year's All-Star squad. Hamman and Kneece were second team All-Star members a year ago.

The coach of the year last year was Dick Graham of Laurelville, who resigned his teaching position to accept a job in private industry.

Palmer is Westfall's leading scorer, averaging nearly 18 points per game. Hamman was the second leading scorer for the Mustangs with a 12-plus average during the season.

Woolever and Fausnaugh were the top scorers for Logan Elm's Braves while Bower and Kneece paced the Laurelville Wildcats offensively. Whitcraft was one of the top defensive players in the conference.

Logan Elm advanced further in tournament play this year than any other team in the league, getting to the district before losing.

Reds Threaten Olympic Boycott

MOSCOW (AP)—The Russians are threatening to pull out, along with some 40 other nations, but Avery Brundage and host Mexico contend there is no change in plans for the Olympic Games.

"Everything is still as is," Brundage, the president of the International Olympic Committee said in Chicago Thursday after the Russians had delivered a sharply worded demand that South Africa be omitted from the Games.

And in Mexico City, site of the October Games, lodging control officer Ramon Alatorre said none of the nations that have announced their boycotts have yet canceled their room reservations.

Tobin Bronze Seeks Big Win

By ED SCHUYLER JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

Last Saturday, Australian-born Tobin Bronze won a race named after Irish-bred Azucar. This Saturday, Tobin Bronze will try to do something Azucar did in 1935—win the $145,000 Santa Anita Handicap.

The 6-year-old Australian champion will carry high weight of 124 pounds in the expected field of 15 for the 1 1/4-mile Santa Anita classic.

Jim Ard Honored

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Cincinnati's Jim Ard was named 1968 sophomore of the year in Missouri Valley Conference basketball today. The 6-foot-8 Bearcat scored 12.9 points per game and averaged 9.0 rebounds a game during his rookie season.

Blood Spills In Boston, Philly Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There's been bad blood between Eddie Shack and Larry Zeidel for 10 years and Thursday night some of it spilled.

Shack, the burly Boston forward, and Zeidel, a Philadelphia defenseman who has brawled his way through 17 seasons of professional hockey, cut each other about the head in an agonizing stick-swinging duel that cost each player a match penalty, automatic $100 fine and possible suspension.

The National Hockey League game was played on neutral Toronto ice—Philadelphia's Spectrum is closed because of wind damage—and Boston eked out a 2-1 victory to climb within one point of idle New York in the race for second place in the East Division.

Los Angeles and Minnesota moved into a second-place tie in the West, two points behind Philadelphia. The Kings walloped Oakland, 9-2, while the North Stars battled to a 2-2 deadlock with Pittsburgh.

Pipers Win Over Oaks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

It's going to be difficult to dislodge Connie Hawkins from the No. 1 spot in the individual scoring race in the American Basketball Association.

He strengthened his hold on the top rung by tossing in 39 points Thursday night to lead the Pittsburgh Pipers to a 119-114 road victory over the Oakland Oaks.

It was the 12th straight victory over the Oaks, but the Oaks were in contention until the last two minutes before losing their seventh in a row. The Oaks pulled within 112-111 before two free throws each by Hawkins and Chico Vaughn put the Pipers out of danger.

The Minnesota Muskies also scored on the road over Anaheim 124-115 and the Houston Mavericks won at home over the Indiana Pacers 115-104 in the other ABA games scheduled.

Knudson Behind In Doral Open

MIAMI (AP)—For two happy weeks, George Knudson rode smoothly along golf's glory road. Then came the detour.

The lanky, red-haired Canadian had won two straight tournaments. He had a chance in the $100,000 Doral Open to make it three in a row—a feat last accomplished in 1960 when Arnold Palmer racked up the Texas, Baton Rouge and Pensacola opens in succession.

But in Thursday's opening round, Knudson veered onto a sideroad rough with bogeys.

"It was a terrible effort," he said after posting a 76 and winding up 11 distant strokes behind the leader, Gardner Dickinson.

Miami Leader In Swim Contests

ATHENS, Ohio (AP)—Led by John Russell, defending champion Miami took a commanding lead Thursday night after the first five events in the Mid-American Conference swimming championships.

Three conference records were set and another tied.

Miami leads with 45 1/2 points. Ohio University is second with 29, Bowling Green third with 26, Kent State fourth with 18 1/2 and Western Michigan fifth with 11.

14 of 16 Teams Recieve Notice Of NIT Pairing

NEW YORK (AP)—Fourteen of the 16 teams in the National Invitation Basketball Tournament have received word on their first round opponents. Only the Oklahoma City Chiefs remain in the dark today, knowing only that they will have perhaps the toughest time reaching the second round.

The pairings, released Thursday for the 31st annual tourney at Madison Square Garden, pits Oklahoma City against the runner-up of the Atlantic Coast Conference tournament, which ends Saturday.

Fifth-ranked North Carolina and sixth-ranked Duke are expected to battle for the title and the automatic bid to the NCAA tourney. The second place team goes to the NIT, which does not give the Chiefs much to choose from. Either North Carolina or Duke will be an NIT favorite with the ACC team already seeded first.

The Chiefs, 20-6, face the ACC runner-up in the second half of the opening night doubleheader next Thursday after Marshall, 17-7, and St. Peter's, 22-2, tangle in the first game.

Actually, the tournament, expanded from 14 to 16 teams last week, had no seedings, but it was learned that the draw was built around the ACC team.

Tribe Pitching OK, Sanford Says

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP)—Indian pitching coach Jack Sanford says the Tribe has fine pitching potential, and that Manager Alvin Dark is the man who can bring out that potential.

"He made a 24-game winner out of me," Sanford said, and he went on to tell how Dark helped him in 1962.

Providence Seeks Hockey Coach

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP)—Providence College is looking for a new hockey coach.

The school announced Thursday that Zello Toppazzini, coach for the last four years, has resigned. His record during that time was 31-60.

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Why pick on Lowery Lane? Just what did you find? It is not what you wrote, but how.

Lowery Lane has City water, and three pumps. Not one house on Lowery property that is on Lowery Lane has city water, much less eight people in it.

And all the people on Lowery Lane have a bed, they have wood floors as most floors are made of wood. They don't have straw or dirt floors as a bed.

So what did you find on Lowery Lane? Poor people. Look hard and you will find lot of them.

AUDREY (LOWERY) ADAMS
5757 Hominy Ridge Road
Springfield, Ohio

Dear Editor:

In regard to the letter of Doyle B. Fouch in the March 5, edition of the Circleville Herald, I would like to express my opinions of the Teays Valley Sectional.

A good basketball fan should appreciate the hard work of the people connected with the TV Sectional. A real basketball fan should know that some people have to be in the building before the doors are opened to organize the building for the huge crowds. As for people already in the gym, did Mr. Fouch ever stop to think that those people might be connected with the work of the tournament?

If Mr. Fouch wants to complain about the way the games are scheduled, why doesn't he complain to the President of OHSAA? The people at Teays Valley have nothing to do with the scheduling of the games.

I believe if Mr. Fouch would do some research, he would find out that there isn't an advance sale of tickets anywhere in the State of Ohio for any tournament game.

And what if the doors were opened an hour earlier? The fans would still start to arrive three hours before the doors are supposed to open and there would still be a "stampede" as Fouch puts it.

As for the gym at Teays Valley I think Mr. Fouch will find that this gym has a larger seating capacity than any other gym in the county.

I believe that if Mr. Fouch thinks he can do a better job in running this tournament, he should have a chance to do it, so he can discover for himself what a hard task it is to do a job of this nature.

DON CRUMLEY
Route 2, Ashville
Teays Valley Graduate

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reference to your article on the city's poverty pockets. It will not say the story of Lowery Lane because the story doesn't fit Lowery Lane. I know it's my home.

The one room shack does not exist here. The pump does not exist for we have city water the same as the touring people probably drink unless they drink something other than water and as far as the coal smoke we could charge more rent to these people and put gas in the houses since we have gas in the lane already. Of course they couldn't pay more. Why? You might ask. I'll tell you why. Because all but (3) three people on the George Lowery property and on the Mrs. William Lowery property get their money from the government in a monthly check. If they meant the $2,000 a year per family from Lowery Lane whose fault is it? As far as I'm concerned if they set out to run the children in the lands down they did a good job on mine and I'll guarantee you. If I were to be called by God above tomorrow I'm sure everyone who knows me very well would say my children were taken care of the very best of my ability.

I wonder how many others could say the same of theirs. If I stepped on the wrong toes in this letter I'm sorry. I'm sure the ones who are wrong about the lane will feel the guilt in their heart for the children whose classmates are wondering do you sleep on dirt or straw at your house?

If you were trying your best would you want your children asked this? I truly found when mine were asked that I wasn't too old to cry. They could have stated an area but they had to put it on some of the little shoulders and say Lowery Lane. May God help them to sleep at night.

MRS. JANE LOWERY
136 Lowery Lane

Dear Editor:

In answer to Mr. Fouch's letter in the Tuesday paper. I am in full agreement with him. I too wondered how in the world some of the small children got through the crowd without being trampled.

My husband and I stood in line for 1 hour and 10 minutes. We were only a few feet from the South door, but by the time we got inside the gym the only empty seats were in the balcony.

We appreciate the following, that Logan Elm has had from some of the other schools but we feel that the management should make tickets available to the schools involved, so that the people in the particular school district can see their team play without so much confusion and without standing in line for such a long time. The arrangements that were made for the tournament this year were totally inadequate. This is the nearest I have ever come to being in a mob. Adults were pushing little children out of the way, without any regards for their welfare at all. Something must be done.

Dear Editor:

I am referring this letter to the Sectional Tournament at Teays Valley.

If they open the doors an hour earlier it would be the same way. It doesn't matter what time they open the doors it would be a stampede. And about Mr. Ed Johnson, I think he is very nice for broadcasting all of the tournament games. I think Teays Valley's gym is a very nice gym. It is where the tournaments should be held! Stampedes are caused by people not Teays Valley!!

Junior Miss Contestants In Mobile

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Mobile and the weatherman reached out warmly to 50 of the nation's "ideal" high school senior girls Thursday as the Port City and the Junior Misses prepared for a hectic week.

As the girls deplaned at the airport, Southern hospitality was awaiting in the form of 50 Azalea Trail maids — all dressed in pastel-shaded, antebellum gowns with parasols in hand.

"I've never seen anything like this in my life," gasped Ohio's Junior Miss Melissa Rohde, a 17-year-old pupil at Middletown High School.

With all 50 of the Junior Misses finally within the city limits, and after months of extensive planning, the fun, laughs, friendships and a sense of the scope of the pageant got into full swing.

The girls are competing for $48,000 in scholarships.

Preliminaries will be held Monday through Wednesday, and next Friday one will be chosen as America's Junior Miss over nationwide television.

The score didn't turn out right for Westfall rooters Saturday night, but the sun still came up as usual Sunday morning over Mustang Country. Everyone that went to the tournament saw a real fine game... clean and well played. Fans could be proud of both teams.

The boys in town are a little confused as to what to do now that basketball season is over. Some were still playing basketball Sunday afternoon. Others were throwing baseballs and I even saw one tossing a football. Marbles should be appearing before too long. Marbles is one of the oldest games in the world. We used to make our own marbles from clay. Some weren't exactly round and they didn't last too long especially when some kid with a "steely" got into the game. Sometimes someone would bring a big bag of marbles to school in the morning and take home only the bag that evening after playing "keeps" at recess and lunch hour. You had to follow strict rules playing "keeps" — knuckles down and no fudging.

The Dairy Shed has opened again. Kids didn't mind that the temperature was below freezing.

By gosh if the Dairy Shed opens that means its time for ice cream. Jack Betts did a real good job with the Mosquito League baseball team last summer. They had a 14-0 record. I think though the Dairy Shed provided a good incentive as the kids knew they were in for a real treat if they won.

Bill Rhinesmith was the champion melon grower in town last summer. I was with a group recently when the talk turned to melons. One fellow told how he and some cohorts, in their younger days, discovered a fine patch of melons. They didn't know who it belonged to but those melons were sure tempting. He vividly described the methods they used to pluck one now and then... crawling across fields on dark nights etc. After he had finished, one older fellow who had been sitting silently in the corner suddenly said: "You know, I always wondered who that was. Those were my melons." (They were too!)

We only had one protest marcher again in town this week. Some lady had her hair dyed blonde and now is complaining that she isn't having more fun. Last week it was some guy who bought hair dressing and took karate lessons which he hasn't used. Maybe they could get together. He could give her a good karate chop for fun.

Reverend Williams is telling about an old fellow who inherited a million dollars. His family was afraid to tell him as he had a bad heart so they asked their minister to do it. The minister agreed and tactfully asked the old fellow what he would do if he inherited a million dollars. "I would give you half", said the old man; whereupon the minister dropped dead with a heart attack.

Two new business places opening soon in town... a beauty shop at the old bank and a bake shop two doors away. Mud packs and pies in the same building!

Letters To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:

Why pick on Lowery Lane? Just what did you find? It is not what you wrote, but how.

Lowery Lane has city water, and three pumps. Not one house on Lowery property that is on Lowery Lane has city water, much less eight people in it.

And all the people on Lowery Lane have a bed, they have wood floors as most floors are made of wood. They don't have straw or dirt floors as a bed.

So what do you find on Lowery Lane? Poor people. Look hard and you will find lot of them.

AUDREY (LOWERY) ADAMS

Dear Editor:

In regard to the letter of Doyle B. Fouch in the March 5, edition of the Circleville Herald, I would like to express my opinions of the Teays Valley Sectional.

A good basketball fan should appreciate the hard work of the people connected with the TV Sectional. A real basketball fan should know that some people have to be in the building before the doors are opened to organize the building for the huge crowds. As for people already in the gym, did Mr. Fouch ever stop to think that those people might be connected with the work of the tournament?

If Mr. Fouch wants to complain about the way the games are scheduled, why doesn't he complain to the President of OHSAA? The people at Teays Valley have nothing to do with the scheduling of the games.

I believe if Mr. Fouch would do some research, he would find out that there isn't an advance sale of tickets anywhere in the State of Ohio for any tournament game.

And what if the doors were opened an hour earlier? The fans would still start to arrive three hours before the doors are supposed to open and there would still be a "stampede" as Fouch puts it.

As for the gym at Teays Valley I think Mr. Fouch will find that this gym has a larger seating capacity than any other gym in the county.

I believe that if Mr. Fouch thinks he can do a better job in running this tournament, he should have a chance to do it, so he can discover for himself what a hard task it is to do a job of this nature.

Dear Editor:

This letter is in reference to your article on the city's poverty pockets. It will not say the story of Lowery Lane because the story doesn't fit Lowery Lane. I know it's my home.

The one room shack does not exist here. The pump does not exist for we have city water the same as the touring people probably drink unless they drink something other than water and as far as the coal smoke we could charge more rent to these people and put gas in the houses since we have gas in the lane already. Of course they couldn't pay more. Why? You might ask. I'll tell you why. Because all but (3) three people on the George Lowery property and on the Mrs. William Lowery property get their money from the government in a monthly check. If they meant the $2,000 a year per family from Lowery Lane whose fault is it? As far as I'm concerned if they set out to run the children in the lands down they did a good job on mine and I'll guarantee you. If I were to be called by God above tomorrow I'm sure everyone who knows me very well would say my children were taken care of the very best of my ability.

I wonder how many others could say the same of theirs. If I stepped on the wrong toes in this letter I'm sorry. I'm sure the ones who are wrong about the lane will feel the guilt in their heart for the children whose classmates are wondering do you sleep on dirt or straw at your house?

If you were trying your best would you want your children asked this? I truly found when mine were asked that I wasn't too old to cry. They could have stated an area but they had to put it on some of the little shoulders and say Lowery Lane. May God help them to sleep at night.
